🚲 THE ROUTE

This cross-border circuit is an invitation to roam through different landscapes along the Rhine via two river ferries (Seltz and Neubourg). The route from Seltz to Neubourg leads you through the nature reserve of the Sauer delta, oxbow lakes of the Rhine, the Goldkanal and the museums of the Rhineland Park along the way. And you can stop off for a quick dip in the various bathing spots. Please note that the German section of the trail is not tarmacked.

Consisting of willow groves, mudflats, reedbeds and sedge meadows, the Sauer Delta nature reserve offers a change of scenery. 486 hectares are protected by a ministerial decree in 1997. It is a remarkable site from an ornithological and botanical point of view, but also from a landscape and hydrological point of view. It is one of the last sectors where the waters of the Rhine flow in case of floods.

Formerly the home of the city's night watchman, of which only the front part has been preserved and restored to its original state, the house is built in the typical Alsatian style. The reception office of the Pays de Seltz - Lauterbourg Tourist Office is located here, while the rear part, rebuilt in a contemporary style, houses the permanent exhibition "Once upon a time on the Rhine".

Place Vauban

The Landau Gate (1708), a witness to the Vauban era, was built on top of medieval fortifications. A sun carved on one side of the gate reminds us of the oath of allegiance taken to the king of France in 1680. On the first floor (only accessible during guided tours) in the exhibition room is a model of the city's fortifications, according to the plans of 1782.
